by Some Heavy Hitting. hy Some Heavy Hitting.

READING, PA., April 27.—The opening of the Atlantic League base-ball season in this city took place at League Park to-day between Reading and Lancaster. About 2,000 people attended. Shortly before the opening hour a grand street parade took place. A brass band furnished lively music during the progress of the game, which was marked with heavy hitting on both sides. The locals put up a good game and by opportune hitting managed to win out. The batting of McVey, Stratton and Murphy, and the playing of Leahy, Drauby, Schaub, Cockman, were features. The score:

Philadelphia, 20; Boston, 3. PHILADELPHIA, April 27.—Boston played more like a lot of school boys than champions to-day. Klobedanz was knocked out in half an inning and Streit who was substituted, was but little better. Stable pitched the last two innings, Yeager taking his place in right field Coston's fielding was very ragged. Fraser for the Phillies pitched a steady game, and was well supported. Fourteen of the Quakers went to first on balls, and fairly well, but his support was of minor league order, and the Senators batting likewise was weak. The majority of the uns scored were made on errors. At-

NEW YORK, April 27.—The Brooklyns made it three straight from the Orioles to-day by superior all around play. An error by Magoon let in two runs in the third, while Kelly's triple in the seventh, with two men on bases, clinched the victory. Both Hughes and McGinnity pitched good ball, the former keeping the hits well scattered. The Baitimores had three men on bases in the ninth with one out, but tailled only once. Attendance 2,409.

ORANGH VA., April 25.—Special.— The University of Maryland won from Woodberry to-day in the ninth inning of a close and exciting game. Both teams a close and exciting game. Both teams fielded well, Woodberry playing without an error. Baker pitched a splendid game and allowed only four hits.

Though the home team outplayed the visitors in every particular, it did not win because of the failure of the umptre, who was manager of the Maryland team, which has a Maryland player out when he who was manager of the Maryland ceam, to call a Maryland player out when he interfered with the fielding of the bail. What's the matter with Kentucky? If you pick up the Lomisville papers you will and all of them entiting each other's throats and labeling one another "ingrate," "idlot," "traitor," and all the rest of it. Our old friend, Uncel Hank Watterson, says "go to," "egad" and "marry now" in order to bring back the halycon days, but the boys won't have it. In fact, the youngaters receive him with cat calls, and tell him to "cut it" or "come off." or "smoke up or he'll go out." There was a time when the Kentucky gentleman had the call, when Kentucky editors were courteous, though they were taking one another's life; and even when an editor met a Breathit county desperado whom he had denounced in his paper, the denouncer and findenounced were never too wrathy to forego the pleasure of a fraternal visit to the large of the pleasure of a fraternal visit to the large of the pleasure of a fraternal visit to the large of the large What's the Matter With Kentucky? It was of this Kentucky that the Hor Cardisle, once the blot of the Kentucky Democracy, has been driven from the State. The voice of the eloquent Breck-inridge, through grave fault of his own, it must be said, is no longer heard. There are no Marshalls in the State now to show the state of the proof. are no Marshalls in the State now to charm the people with the music of their eloquence. Senator Lindsay, honored as few men have been in his State, is now unpopular and approaches the end of his political career; and Henry Watterson has about as much influence over the people as the Witch of Endor. Nor is this all. There was a time when J. Skeezics Come-Again Blackburn and P. Watyon Callem Hardin were as Dayld and Jona-Come-Again Blackburn and P. Watyou Callem Hardin were as David and Jonathan, or Damon and Pythias. Shoulder to shoulder they fought for the cause of Democracy, but now they fight no more for one another. Indeed, they are both afflicted with a defective vision when they pass by. Joseph wants to be a Sonator and Wat would like to be Governor but the tin horns are not all dead, and they must be conciliated. Creat and lofty minds like Goebel and Bronston, Hez into consideration; and so Joseph is a ting in the most filtratious manner and Wat has that same uncertain trailing which exists jn the barnyard when the foods are all solitors to be a superficient of the content of an egg or not. So acute is the situation that the Kentuckians can't even pull off a race for justice of the peace without the chance of a riot. And our old favorite, the Star-Eyed

Manufacturers' Record says the pure be obtained by neering facilities to production at a point where the working be done most cheaply and the matterial may be obtained at the least expenditure of money and energy. The policy of the Republic Company caps that policy of the Republic Company caps that of the Empire Iron and Steel Company and the Virginia Iron, Coal and Coke Company, which have also secured some excellent Southern properties. Under the auspices of these three great concerns the Southern iron industry, enhanced in potentialities by the revival of silent furnaces, the improvement of existing plants are the improvement of existing plants and the building of new ones, may be expected to assume greater proportions than pected to assume greater proportions that of the cotton which has gone to Ameri can mills this season, the purchases of Northern mills being less than those of lasf season and those of Southern mills

Among the additions to the Southern among the additions to the Southern mills reported for the week by the Manufacturers' Record are 20,690 spindles to the plant of the Mills Manufacturing Company at Greenville, S. C.: the doubling of the capacity of the Chatham Manufacturing Company's plant at Elkin, N. C.; new looms for the Norris Cotton Mills, at Cateochee, and an expenditure of 20,000 in improvement at the Wahneta Knitting Mills, of Cedarlown, Ga. Among the definite plans are a knitting mill at Forsyth. Ga.; a cotton factory at Chattanooga, Tenn, Tupelo, Miss., Salem, N. C., and Stephenville, Texas, and a knitting mill at Albemarle, N. C. The Macon Chamber of Commerce has induced the establishment of a large underweap factory there, and the recently-organized Young Men's Rusiness League, of Jackson, Miss., are putting forth their best efforts to bring to that city establishments for manufacturing cotton basging, yarns and fabrics, furniture, agricultural implements and other industries. mills reported for the week by the Manulishments for manufacturing cotton bagging, yarns and fabrics, furniture, agricultural implements and other industries.

Two incidents of the week were of more than usual significance. It was announced that after a campaign of less than three months, $100.000 had been subscribed for a colton mill at Shreveport.

La., nearly every busines man of that city taking stock in the enterprise. This mill is a result of the careful study of the successes of textile industries in the Southern Piedmont reston made by Mr.

H. H. Hargrove, and behind it are well developed plans for building mills in three places in Mississiphi, five in Louisiana, and at other ponts; which, if carried out, will do much toward alding in the solution of the Southern cotton growing problem by making the lower Mississippi Valley the manufacturer of Its great crop.

The other incident was the annual meeting of the Granitevilla Manufacturing Company, at which the rettring president, H. Hickman, presented an interesting summary of the operations of the two South Carolina mills controlled by the company during the past thirty-one years, concluding with the amouncement that during the past year the not earnings were $11.99.28. A dividend of 19 per cent, was paid and 2 per cent, was carried to the surplus. Out of its earnings, after paying dividends, the company has accumulated a surplus of over $90.900 invested in its second mill, its surplus now exceeding its capital of $60,000.

The particularly gratifying feature of this exhibit is that it is made by a company representing mills that were a success before the war, and which have emerged from the rain wrought by the war to take a front rank among the latter-day Southern successes, many of which have had all the advantages of new conditions, without any of the draw-backs of the old, and to stand as a striking example of the possibilities in conservatively conducted Southern enterconservatively conducted Southern prises.
